PREFACE TO THE SECOND EDITION

In 1924 the Library of Knox College published "An Annotated Catalogue of Books belonging to the Finley Collection on the History and Romance of the Northwest." At that time the Collection contained less than 1000 volumes. The number at present is over 2500.

This edition of the catalogue includes all of the books, pamphlets and maps now in the Collection, with a list of the donors. It is published as a brief and condensed finding list for those who use the Collection, and for reference by intending donors.

The first edition also contained a reprint of the best guide ever published to the early literature on the discovery and exploration of the Mississippi Valley, by Appleton P. C. Griffin, of the Library of Congress. Copies of this may still be obtained at the Library.

The Finley Collection is now shelved in the Finley Room of the new Henry M. Seymour Library. One of our illustrations shows an interior view of this room and another a general view of the Library.

Attention is also called to the reproduction of the book-plate, which is inserted in all volumes of the Finley Collection, and to the list of separate maps at the end of this catalogue.

THE FINLEY COLLECTION

From the pages of the following catalogue it is obvious that the period covered is roughly from 1600 to 1840—from discovery to settlement—with some books dealing with both earlier and later periods. While placing the emphasis upon the early history of the old Northwest Territory, which took definite form as a political subdivision of the United States in 1787, the Collection includes the related history of New France, Canada and Louisiana, and to some extent of the whole Mississippi Valley. Here is brought together the literature of the French, the English and the beginnings of the American domination. Much of it is the original source material in the French language, with the English translations wherever available.

The special features of the 2500 volumes now in the Collection may be summarized as follows:

(1) The Narratives of the Early Explorers.—These include two of Champlain's four books in their first editions of 1619 and 1632 with a half dozen later editions and reprints in both French and English, including the Prince Society translation and the one now in process of publication by the Champlain Society. There is also a beautifully bound copy of De Creuxius' Historiae Canadensis, formerly owned by Henry Ternaux and Henry F. Depuy. This volume, published in 1664, contains the first publication in complete form of the journey of Nicolet in 1634 to what is now the State of Wisconsin. The narratives of the voyages of Radisson in 1652 to 1664 are available in the Prince Society volume of 1885, their first and best publication. Other early volumes are Thevenot's Voyages, both in the 1681 and 1682 editions, which contain the first publication of the Marquette narrative of the discovery of the Mississippi River by Joliet and himself in 1673, together with the Rich 1845 reprint of the Marquette story, of which only 125 copies were published, and the Leyden edition of 1707; the first and second editions of Hennepin's first book on Louisiana, dated 1683 and 1688, with the two volume translation by Shea; the first and second French editions of Hennepin's second book, dated 1697 and 1698 with the two English editions of 1698, known as the "Bon" and "Tonson" issues, as well as the second English edition of 1699 and several editions, reprints and translations of Hennepin's other and later works. Tonti's narrative has a special interest for the people of Illinois, since for twenty years he held a fortified post on Starved Rock on the Illinois River. The book-plate of the Finley Collection has made this post its central feature. Tonti's narrative was first published at Paris in 1697 with an English edition in 1698. Both of these rare editions together with five later ones are a part of the Collection. The narrative of Joutel, who was really the historian of the La Salle expeditions, did not appear in print until the Paris edition of 1713 followed by English editions in 1714 and 1719. These with three other and later issues stand alongside the fifteen Hennepins and the seven Tontis on the shelves of the Finley Collection. La Hontan is represented by nine different editions both in French and English, including the first, published at Paris in 1703.

(2) Reprints of Manuscript Archives.—In this part of the Collection will be found a set of Margry's six-volume reprints of La Salle, Tonti, Joliet and other material from the French archives; French's Historical Collections in 7 vols.; Shea's two books of the early narratives; the Canadian Archives in 16 vols., as well as about 30 other volumes of early Canadian records; the O'Callaghan reprints of Colonial documents in 15 vols.; the Virginia State Papers in 11 vols., Journals of the House of Burgesses of Virginia in 13 vols.; the American Archives in 9 vols.; the American State Papers in 38 vols.; and Force's Tracts in 4 vols.

(3) The Narratives and Reports of the Early Jesuit Missionaries. This is historically a most important part of the Collection. First of all we have the 73-volume set of Jesuit Relations edited by R. G. Thwaites. This is supplemented by the 3-volume reprint made in 1858 by the Canadian Government; the two volumes edited by Martin published in Paris in 1861; and a complete set in 26 vols. of Shea's Cramoisy Press reprints issued from 1855 to 1887 in a limited edition of 100 copies, and a complete set in 8 vols. of the similar O'Callaghan reprints, of which only 25 copies each were published. The Collection also contains the Journal des Jesuites, both the first and second editions of 1871 and 1892; the Shea translation of 1881 in 2 vols. of Le Clercq's First Establishment of the Faith in New France; and other allied volumes by Bressany, 1852 edition; Crespel, 1884 edition; Ferland, Rochemonteix, Mazzuchelli, and others.

(4) The Early Histories of New France, Canada and Louisiana. These may be said to cover the early history of what is now known as the St. Lawrence Valley, the Great Lakes region, and the Mississippi Valley. They include the works of Lescarbot, first, second and fourth editions of 1609, 1612 and 1618; Sagard, Le Clercq, Faillon, Ferland, de la Potherie, Bossu, du Pratz, Gayarre, Marbois, Charlevoix, Dionne, Heriot, Bibaud, Parkman, Sulte, Garneau, Smith, Kingsford, Hart, Severance, Doughty, and others.

(5) The Later General Histories of the Mississippi Valley.— Special mention should be made of the first three English editions of Imlay's Topographical Description of the Western Territory published in London in 1792, 1793 and 1797, as well as the Dublin edition of 1793 and the Berlin edition of the same year. The Collection also has the two 1778 London issues of Hutchins' Topographical Description and the Paris edition of 1781. Another rare volume is M'Afee's History of the Late War in the Western Country, published at Lexington, Ky., in 1816. Other histories include the works of Albach, Alvord, Beggs, Blanchard, Brown, Burnet, Bradford, Butterfield, Carter, Chittenden, Coues, Coman, Darlington, English, Fernow, Flint, Hermann, Hinsdale, Hosmer, Hulbert, Kellogg, Laut, Marshall, Monette, Moore, Nicollet, Ogg, Paxson, Perkins, Poole, Ross, Roosevelt, Spears and Clark, Thwaites, Turner, Volwiler, Walker, and Winsor.

(6) Narratives of Early Travelers in the Pioneer Days.—The group of books under this heading is of great interest. It consists of contemporary reports of early travelers of all nationalities who made journeys on foot, on horseback, or by boat or stage coach through the Mississippi Valley, which was then attracting the interest of the whole world. These books, many of them published in the large cities of Europe, in English, French, German and Dutch, bear witness to this widespread interest. They were in fact the publicity literature that within a few decades brought to the states of the Northwest a vast army of the European ancestors of our present day citizens. Only a few of these 200 or more volumes can be mentioned. Birkbeck's Letters from Illinois and Notes on a Journey in America ran through several editions in England, Ireland, France, and Germany, as well as in the United States in 1817 and 1818. Nine of these are in the Collection, which also has a presentation copy from the author of Flower's Letters from Illinois, 1822, also dealing with the same English settlement in what is now Edwards County. Another rare volume is Pittman's Present State of the European Settlements on the Mississippi, London, 1770, and still another is Pownall's Topographical Description, London, 1776. Other travel books are those of Carver, first edition, 1778; Chastellux, 1786 and 1787; Long, 1791; Volney, 1803; Michaux, 1804; Thaddeus Harris, 1805; Ashe, 1808; Alex. Henry, 1809; Schultz, 1810; Cuming, 1810; Ker, 1816; Fearon, 1818; Thomas, 1819; Darby, 1819; Dana, 1819; Wm. Tell Harris, 1821; Woods, 1822; Faux, 1823; Beltrami, 1824 and 1828; Flint, 1826; Shirreff, 1835; Griffiths, 1835; Gregg's Commerce of the Prairies, first and second editions, 1844 and 1845; and scores of others including Atwater, Brackenridge, Hoffman, Lambert, Latrobe, Hall, Mrs. Kinzie, M'Clung, Murray, Parker, Perrin du Lac, Stuart, Mrs. Tillson, and Weston.

Special mention should be made of nearly 50 volumes on the Journals of the Lewis and Clark expedition up the Missouri River and over the Rocky Mountains in 1804–1806. This important exploring expedition made under the direction of President Jefferson soon after the purchase of Louisiana, has an important literature of its own and these 50 volumes cover it in a most satisfactory way. They include the first American edition of 1814 in two volumes, and the first London edition of the same year, in a quarto volume beautifully bound by Riviere, with many other issues, published in America and Europe. The Journals brought out under the editorship of Elliott Coues in 1893 in 4 volumes and the issue of 1904 in 8 volumes, edited by Reuben G. Thwaites, round out the Collection. Mention should also be made of three editions of 1807, 1808 and 1812 of the Journal of Patrick Gass, a member of the Lewis and Clark expedition. The reports and records of other similar early expeditions will be found in Long's Account of an Expedition from Pittsburgh o the Rocky Mountains, 3 vols., 1823; in Long's Narrative of an Expedition to the Source of St. Peter's River, 1824; in Alexander Mackenzie's Voyages from Montreal in 1789 and 1793, London, 1801, with a handsome Zachnsdorf binding; in Pike's Account of Expeditions to the Sources of the Mississippi, Philadelphia, 1810; and in Alexander Henry's Travels and Adventures in Canada, New York, 1809. In this same class of literature belongs the indispensible set of 3 volumes by Chittenden on the American Fur Trade and Larpenteur's Forty Years a Fur Trader, as they deal with the adventures of explorers, travelers and traders throughout the whole region of the Mississippi Valley.

In addition to all of these original editions there is the 32-volume set of reprints of Early Western Travels, edited by Reuben G. Thwaites. In this monumental work are nearly forty journals of the early travelers.

(7) Histories of the State of Illinois.—The Illinois histories include those of John Reynolds, 1852 and 1855, with the later reprints of both; Blanchard, Breese, Brown, Buck, Davidson and Stuvé, Duis, Edwards, Ford, Gerhard, Greene, Humphrey, Mitchell, Jones, Lusk, Mason, Matson, Moses, Parrish, Pease, Perrin, Pooley, Snyder, Wallace, and Waller. In addition to these there are many local histories of Chicago, Peoria, Rock Island, Springfield, Quincy, Cairo, Decatur, as well as histories of Cook, McLean, La Salle, Sangamon and Williamson counties. There are early pamphlets issued by the Illinois Land Company in 1839, by the Illinois Central Rail Road Company in 1855 and 1856, and an especially rare group of about 20 pamphlets published by the Cairo City and Canal Company in 1837 and 1838. Of special interest to the Knox Library is a copy of the Proceedings of the First Illinois Anti-Slavery Convention held at Upper Alton in 1837. The call for this convention was signed by many residents of Galesburg and several of the Trustees of Knox College.

(8) Histories of Other Mississippi Valley States.—The early histories of these states include Brice's History of Ft. Wayne, 1868; Cox's Early Settlement of the Wabash Valley, 1860; Dillon's Indiana, 1843; Ellsworth's Valley of the Upper Wabash, 1838; Smith's Early Indiana Trials and Sketches, 1858; Parker's Iowa, 1855; Newhall's Sketches of Iowa, 1841; Collins' Historical Sketches of Kentucky, 1847; Butler's Kentucky, 1834; Filson's Kentucky, 1793, and the Paris edition of 1785; Marshall's Kentucky, 1824; Barbé-Marbois' Louisiana, 1830 and the Paris edition of 1829; Fortier's Louisiana, 1904; Gayarre's Louisiana, all of the early editions from 1848 to 1854; Livingston's System of Penal Law for the State of Louisiana, 1833; Martin's Louisiana, 1827–29 and 1882; Stoddard's Sketches of Louisiana, 1812; Farmer's Detroit, 1884; Historical and Scientific Sketches of Michigan, 1834; Lanman's Michigan, 1839; Sheldon's Michigan, 1856; Neill's Minnesota, 1858; Oliphant's Minnesota, 1855; Billon's St. Louis, 1886–88; Atwater's Ohio, 1838; Drake's Cincinnati, 1815; Hildreth's Pioneer History, 1848; Hosmer's Maumee Valley, 1858; Taylor's Ohio, 1854; Haywood's Tennessee, 1823; Lapham's Wisconsin, 1844 and 1846 editions; Smith's Wisconsin, 1854; Strong's Territory of Wisconsin, 1885; McLeod's History of Wiskonsan, 1846.

(9) Early Guide Books and Gazetteers.—Of special interest are Beck's Gazetteer of the States of Illinois and Missouri, 1823; Brown's Western Gazetteer, 1817; Cobbett's Emigrant's Guide, 1829; Collins' Emigrant's Guide, 1830; Cumings' Western Pilot, first edition, 1825; Curtiss' Emigrant's Guide, 1852; Hunt's Wisconsin Gazetteer, 1853; Jenkins' Ohio Gazetteer, 1839; Peck's Gazetteer of Illinois, published at Jacksonville in 1834, as well as two other editions of 1836 and 1837; Peck's Guide for Emigrants, 1831; Peck's Traveler's Directory for Illinois, first edition, 1839; Smith's Western Tourist, 1839; and Wetmore's Gazetteer of the State of Missouri, 1837.

(10) Early Periodicals and Other Literary Works.—This class of books is of great importance in the study of the West. The Collection includes the American Pioneer, Vols. 1 and 2, 1842–3; the Chicago Magazine, Vol. 1, 1857; the Illinois Monthly Magazine, Vols. 1 and 2, 1831 and 1832; the Western Monthly Magazine, Vols. 1 to 5, 1833–36; the Olden Time, Vols. 1 and 2, 1846 and 1847; the Western Monthly Review, Vol. 3, 1830; the Western Literary Journal and Monthly Review, Vol. 1, 1845; and the Hesperian, Vol. 1, 1838. The writings of Judge James Hall are represented by thirteen of his works published from 1828 to 1857. Other early writers whose books are in the Collection are Flint, Gallagher, Gallaher, Coggeshall, Caroline M. Kirkland, Irving and Hoffman.

(11) Historical Periodicals.—Among the most important in the Collection may be mentioned the American Historical Review, Vols. 1–27; the Magazine of Western History, Vols. 1–14; Magazine of American History, Vols. 2–26; the Historical Magazine, a complete set in 23 vols.; and Niles Register, a complete set in 76 volumes, published from 1811 to 1849.

(12) Historical Society and Club Publications.—This is one of the most useful and valuable parts of the Collection and includes complete sets of the Papers and Reports of the American Historical Association, in 52 vols.; of the Champlain Society Publications in 19 vols.; of the Journal, Transactions, and Proceedings of the Illinois State Historical Society and Library in over 50 vols.; of the Chicago Historical Society, in 10 vols. and 24 pamphlets; a complete set of the Fergus Historical Series of 35 pamphlets bound in 4 vols.; the Kansas Historical Society in 13 vols.; a complete set, from the library of the late Senator Lodge, of the Collections, 76 vols., (1792–1923) and Proceedings, 58 vols., (1791–1924) of the Massachusetts Historical Society; the Collections of the Michigan Pioneer and Historical Society in 34 vols.; the Minnesota Historical Society Publications in 22 vols.; the Collections and Proceedings of the New York Historical Society, 70 vols.; the Ohio State Archeological and Historical Society Publications in 25 vols.; the Parkman Club Publications, Nos. 1–18, a complete set; the Reports, Collections and Proceedings of the Wisconsin State Historical Society in over 50 vols.; and several other similar sets.

(13) Miscellaneous Subjects.—Several classes of books in the Collection can be mentioned but very briefly. These include the Indians, Religious History, and Biography. Adair's History of the American Indians, London, 1775, and Wakefield's History of the Black Hawk War, published at Jacksonville, 1834, deserve special mention. Another book of local interest is a bound volume containing 14 pamphlet reports of the General Association of Congregational Churches and Ministers of Illinois, 1856 to 1871. In the 1861 document is a 60-page Report on Knox College.

(14) Maps.—While this section of the Collection makes no claim to completeness it is nevertheless worthy of special mention as a good beginning of most valuable historical material. A list of the separate maps will be found at the end of the catalogue.

(15) Bibliographies.—These include a large number of volumes that will be found most helpful in the study of Mississippi Valley history by Griffin, Winsor, Harisse, Marcel, Turner, Buck, Pooley, Boggess, Carayon, Baldwin, Kingsford, Gagnon, Field, Larned, and Venable.

AN AUTHOR CATALOGUE OF THE FINLEY COLLECTION

NOTE.—The classification of this catalogue is alphabetical, by authors, editors, translators and compilers. Usually only one entry appears for each title, except where there is an editor or compiler as well as an author. All books not accompanied by a donor's name are the gift of Edward Caldwell. Initials of authors are omitted to save space. The catalogue is intended to give a brief and comprehensive summary of the Collection and to provide a quick finding list of its contents when the author is known.
